

How toxic are your cleaning chemicals?

Just ask emergency-room personnel. Each year there are five to 10 million chemical-related injuries and poisonings.

Fifteen percent of the population is hypersensitive to chemicals commonly found in household products.

Twelve thousand injuries were caused by exposure to lye for less than 15 seconds in one year in the United States alone.

Many people have no idea how dangerous these products may be.

Most buyers don't pay much attention to the dangers posed by commercial and household cleaners, until there's an accident.

Safety is no accident!
